Code of Conduct & Ethics

Since our founding, Tricon has been committed to the highest standards of business conduct in all our relationships with our clients, associates, business partners and vendors, government agencies, and communities. Adhering to the highest standards of integrity does more than just help us avoid the business and personal problems that illegal or unethical behaviour may bring. It advances our industry leadership, making Tricon a better business partner and trusted contributor to our communities.

The Standards of Excellence

Everyone who works for Tricon is responsible for upholding our values, maintaining a good business environment, and ensuring ethical business practices. You can depend on management to do everything in its power to meet Tricon's standards of business conduct. The following pages summarize the principles and policies contained in our Code of Business Conduct and Ethics, which applies to all employees, officers, and directors.

Always Obey the Law

We will conduct our business in compliance with all the laws and regulations that apply to the markets we serve worldwide. Complying with law in letter and spirit is the minimum standard we all must meet in carrying out our responsibilities at Tricon.

Transparency and Auditability

All directors, senior management and employees shall ensure that their actions in the conduct of the business are totally transparent except where the needs of business security dictate otherwise. Such transparency shall be brought about through appropriate policies, systems, and processes, including segregation of duties, tiered approval mechanisms and involvement of more than one manager in key decisions. It shall be necessary to voluntarily ensure that areas of operation are open to audit, and the conduct of activities is totally auditable.

Protection of Confidential Information

No director, senior management or employee shall disclose or use any confidential information gained during employment or association with the Company for personal gain or for the advantage of any other person. No information either formally or informally shall be provided to the press, other publicity media or any external agency except within approved policies.

Company Facilities

No director, senior management or employee shall misuse Company facilities. In the use of Company facilities, care shall be exercised to ensure that costs are reasonable and there is no wastage.

Follow Our Internal Policies and Procedures

Our business units and functional departments all have policies and procedures that we must follow in doing our jobs. One aspect is crucial: we must maintain records and accounting control for the entire company that accurately and fairly reflect our business activities, income, and expenses. All employees must follow these policies and procedures and cooperate fully with Tricon's internal and external auditors.

Ensure Employee Safety and Health

Providing a safe and healthy working environment is extremely important. We are responsible for complying fully with all environmental, health and safety laws and regulations. Every employee is expected to prevent accidents by maintaining a safe work environment and following safe work procedures and practices.

Treat People with Respect and Fairness

One of our most basic beliefs is that everyone should have the opportunity to work. Beyond complying with applicable employment laws worldwide, our obligation is to ensure fairness in the hiring and advancement of all employees without discrimination.

We all have a personal responsibility for maintaining a safe and respectful work atmosphere, free of abusive or unprofessional conduct. Every employee is expected to respect other people as individuals and treat them with dignity.

Our commitment to safety and respect in the workplace also includes our full support for international efforts to promote ethical principles related to the prevention of exploitation and abuse associated with the trafficking of human beings.

Deal with Clients and Suppliers Fairly and Honestly

All buying and selling, and all agreements made on Tricon's behalf, must be done in a responsible manner. This means we must:

- Never request or accept cash or other favors such as discounts, supplies or gifts in connection with any contract or agreement or acquiring goods or services.
- Never promise or give cash or other favors to secure favorable treatment or consideration for Tricon from any client or supplier.
- Never directly or indirectly give anything of significant value to representatives of governments, labour organizations or current or prospective business relationships.

If you become aware of or involved in a situation involving bribery or other inappropriate compensation, it is your responsibility to report the matter to your TL, manager, or compliance officer immediately.

Avoid conflicts of interest. Charges of misconduct can arise any time our personal interests and those of our company appear to differ. Examples of conflicts may include:

- Owning or having a substantial financial interest in a company that is a Tricon client, competitor, or supplier.
- Consulting to or working part-time for a client, competitor or supplier without your manager's knowledge and approval.
- Hiring a relative to work in your own department or other areas within your scope of responsibility and authority.

- Giving preferential treatment to business partners or potential partners where a relative is employed.
- Making political contributions (in money or personal services) in Tricon's name instead of your own.
- Running for election to, or accepting, a political office without prior management knowledge and approval.

Never Try to Influence Official Decisions Through Improper Conduct

Tricon strictly prohibits any employee worldwide from paying bribes or otherwise trying to improperly influence government officials, political parties or candidates for political office — even if such a payment is requested and called something other than a bribe, and even if it takes place through a third party. Regardless of whether you think your country allows some type of payment, such as a so-called "facilitating payment", you should first consult with your manager to make sure that you won't violate any law in the country.

Always Compete Fairly

It is our policy to compete openly and fairly and to comply with antitrust laws worldwide. Antitrust laws typically prohibit all competing companies from:

- Agreeing upon prices or price ranges
- Exchanging bids with each other
- Allocating territories, clients, or markets
- Setting up a rotation method of bids among competitors
- Limiting or restricting delivery schedules
- Fixing discounts, rebates, or terms

If a competitor raises such a topic or any other matter that you believe could violate antitrust laws or our company policy, you should immediately and firmly decline to discuss it, then promptly notify your manager or compliance officer.

Respect Our Corporate Assets, Ideas and Information

Tricon's assets include our ideas, business plans, technologies, client lists and other proprietary information, in addition to money, property, equipment and supplies. The theft, misappropriation or unauthorized use of any of these assets is a serious matter. In dealing outside of work, it is especially important not to divulge important information about the company or its business, even accidentally. Matters that should not be discussed outside the company include:

- Financial results and business plans that have not been publicly disclosed.
- Potential mergers, acquisitions, or joint ventures
- New or planned products or services
- New contracts or the loss of a contract
- Contract terms or prices.
- Proprietary information provided to us by clients, suppliers, or any firm with which we do business.

Remember that confidential information about our company, clients, suppliers or others may never be used for personal advantage or to benefit friends or family members. This includes insider trading.

Protect Licenses, Copyrights and the Intellectual Property of Others

We must respect the intellectual property of other companies. We must not use duplicate licensed computer software, use other companies' logos or trademarks, or broadly distribute copyrighted material without the owner's permission.

Safeguard computer and telecommunication systems. Software and data must be protected from damage, alteration, theft, fraudulent manipulation, unauthorized access and disclosure. Passwords should be used on all computers and revised periodically. Computer and telecommunications systems are provided for business purposes and may not be used for other purposes. Employees may not use these devices to send messages that contain offensive or defamatory content.

When in Doubt: An Ethical Compass

Most of the time, common sense and sound business judgment are our best guides in determining appropriate conduct. If you find yourself in a situation where you are not sure of the ethical implications of an action, ask yourself:

- Are my actions legal?
- Am I being fair and honest?
- Is this action in the best interests of Tricon and the clients we serve?
- Will others view my actions positively in the future?
- Do I believe that I am acting in an ethical manner?
- If my actions were reported in the news media, how would I, and my company, be perceived?
- Is this the right thing to do?

If you still need clarification, ask your manager or compliance officer to help answer your questions and direct you to additional resources.

Reporting and Administration of This Policy

All employees are expected to bring all business issues and developments that could adversely affect the company's performance or reputation to management's attention, including any violations of standards of ethical business conduct.

Any good-faith report of a concern or violation will be treated with dignity and respect. Your anonymity will be protected to the greatest extent possible. Your concern will be seriously addressed, and every attempt will be made to resolve it. Retaliation of any kind against any employee who reports a concern or violation in good faith will not be tolerated.

In circumstances where the need has arisen to recruit and where the position/headcount/staff costs have not been budgeted for, Tricon Infotech's CEO's approval is required. Submissions for approval must include business reasons for such proposed unbudgeted recruitment.

Process

The Department Head/Functional Manager shall send a request justifying it and stating the competencies framework as per Company norms along with other job details, and get it duly approved from the Higher Authority.

Points to Remember

- Job descriptions and role profiles are written records of the duties, responsibilities and requirements for a particular job. The HR Team shall maintain Tricon Infotech's hierarchy describing the role, responsibilities, location and competencies required for that particular job.

HR Team's Responsibility

- The HR team will invest time to ensure that responsibilities and skill requirements don't differ from Tricon Infotech's standard norms and practices.
- A specific explanation can be asked from the Functional Manager if any detail mentioned in the requisition request is against Tricon Infotech's standard norms and practices.
- The HR Team may also decide to circulate the position internally to get references under the Employee Referral Program.

Creation of Candidate Evaluation Form (CEF)

- For every manpower requisition generated, creation of a Candidate Evaluation Form (CEF) is a MUST. Details can be borrowed from the Manpower Requisition for responsibilities and skills required.
- Interviewers should create a list of questions, cases, and scenarios to test candidates, to ensure that the skills mentioned in the CEF can be assessed.
- The duly filled CEF must be signed by all interviewers before recommending to the HR Team for selection.
- For a candidate's final selection, CEF must be considered. If any recruitment decision has been taken, it needs to be noted on CEF with the concerned manager's signature.
- CEF can also be used as a tool during salary negotiation with candidates, to highlight possible gaps in their skill sets and how those gaps can be bridged with Tricon Infotech's extensive training.
- The duly filled CEF and the Candidate Information Form must be attached in the personal files of all candidates who join Tricon Infotech as employees.
- CEF is a compulsory and confidential document for the new recruit; hence the HR Team must ensure that employees DO NOT get access to the same at ANY stage.

Interview Panel

- There will be a pre-fixed Interview panel which will be decided along with the Manpower Requisition.
- Interview panel members will be expected to ensure that their calendars are flexible enough to accommodate possible scheduling of interviews/tests.

Recruitment Communication

Any recruitment communication needs to be generated in standard format for call pitches, mailers or presentations. These communications MUST be approved by the HR Lead prior to initiating such communication to candidates or consultants. Any gap in this should be considered a breach of Recruitment Policy. The documents used are:

- Recruitment FAQs: List of possible questions candidates generally ask, with ready answers.
- Recruitment Pitch: First call given to candidates to judge/arouse their interest in a position with Tricon Infotech.
- Introductory Mail: Standard mail sent to candidates who are invited for a personal interview.

Interview Schedule

The HR Team will maintain the interview schedule and give prior intimation of interview to the concerned interviewer through email or call. The HR Team must ensure that appropriate time is given to the Functional Managers to adjust their schedules. Once a slot is fixed, it is the joint responsibility of the HR Team and the Functional Manager to execute the interview at the given time.

Video Round of Interview

- Every candidate being offered from Tricon should have a mandatory round of face-to-face or video call interview.
- A screenshot should be captured during the video call and matched with their passport or photo identity proof picture.
- Only once this mapping is done and confirmed should the offer be released.

Candidate Information Form (CIF)

- All candidates appearing in the selection process with Tricon Infotech must submit a duly filled Candidate Information Form (CIF), with details about their qualification, experience and personality.
- CIF also acts as an important legal document. In case any false information is given by the candidate, necessary action can be initiated at a later stage.
- CIF can also act as a source of professional references.
- The HR Team must ensure that candidates have the CIF with them before the interview and that they fill up all the necessary details completely.
- In the case of reference checks, information provided on CIF must be checked with professional references provided by candidates.
- In case of final selection and joining, CIF will be a part of the employee's personal file.

Recruitment Database

The Recruitment Database is an important document to measure the efforts put in by the HR Team and Interview Panel vis-à-vis their effectiveness. Details about all candidates entering the recruitment process must be entered and updated in the Recruitment Database maintained by the HR department.

Finalizing Salary to Offer

- Salary fixation will be initiated and appropriate salary negotiation will be carried out by the HR Team.
- Salary structure for the final salary agreed upon will be determined by the Standard Salary Structure. The HR Team should use the CTC Structure Calculation File for this purpose.
- Due consideration will be given to qualifications, age, experience and compatibility of the existing salary and designation of current Tricon Infotech employees.
- The HR Team will share the final offer and date of joining after matching fitment, considering all the above-mentioned criteria, with Tricon Infotech's Director. No communication can be initiated with the Candidate until confirmation from Tricon Infotech's Director or CEO is received.
- After finalization, the offer will be verbally discussed with the candidate by the HR Team, who may seek support from the Functional Managers during negotiations.
- The salary offered sheet shall be prepared after final negotiation and communicated to the candidate via email or hard copy.

The HR team must check all the following before rolling out the Offer Letter:

- The offer letter once signed and accepted by the candidate must be added to the candidate's personal file.
- The candidate must be informed about their date of joining, location, designation and the timing at which they must report on joining.

Offer Decline / Withdrawn

- In case the candidate accepts the offer initially and then declines, the HR Team must follow up with the candidate to collect back the offer letter on a best-effort basis. An email showing decline of the offer can be documented.
- In case the candidate doesn't send acceptance of the offer within 10 days, the offer will be considered withdrawn.
- If the background verification or reference check is not found satisfactory, or if any information shared by the candidate is found misleading or false, Tricon Infotech can withdraw the offer at any stage.

Background Verification

- In case the company plans to carry out a background verification, it MUST get a Reference Check Authorization Form signed from the candidate.
- Police Verification: Selected candidates at a particular level/designation/department may require registration in the local police station on a case-to-case basis.
- Reference Check: Reference check for every short-listed candidate must be done as per the prescribed Reference Check Form (RCF) by the HR Team before or after releasing the offer letter.

- Once the hiring decision is taken, the candidate is contacted and informed about the decision to conduct reference check with referees whose names have been provided. Referees could strictly be the reporting managers or HR team members (previous organizations). References from peers, friends and colleagues are strictly discouraged.
- Continuity of employment will be subject to the result of this reference check. Tricon Infotech holds the right to terminate employment if contradictions, fake or misleading information are found.

Requisition Closure

- The requisition stands closed with the candidate joining Tricon Infotech on the date mentioned in their offer letter.
- In case the selected candidate is through the Employee Referral Program, their details are put in the Employee Database and reminders are set to pay the referee their due referral fee.

Social Media Policy

Tricon encourages its team members to be brand ambassadors on behalf of the company. While social media creates new opportunities for individual expression, it also creates responsibilities. As a Triconite, you are perceived by our customers, partners, and any other parties as a representative of Tricon. Your participation on social media platforms is a reflection on Tricon, whether it is with reference to your work or not.

This policy deals with the basic steps in your social media journey. Social media applies not only to Facebook, Twitter, and LinkedIn, but also to platforms such as YouTube, Flickr, blogs, and wikis.

When you mention your employer's details on social media, you can proudly disclose that you work for Tricon. However, you must not mention the names of any customers we work with on your social media profiles or during any conversations on any of these platforms, as it would be a breach of confidentiality terms. You must also refrain from sharing private and sensitive information about other Triconites, clients, partners, and any other stakeholders.

Social media communication spreads swiftly and your posts get accessible within seconds. This makes it extremely tricky to correct an inaccurate message once you have shared it. The best thing to do is double-check all content before you share it, both for precision and to make sure it fits into our confidentiality terms.

Your social media engagements must be carried out in the right manner. If you are not an expert on a subject, share details with the authority concerned rather than responding yourself. Please respond on behalf of Tricon only if you are officially authorized to do so.

All Triconites must refrain from posting content that might contain legal inferences, intellectual property that belongs to other companies, and offensive language. Everything you post online can be traced back to you. Your post may have been shared and saved already and would not help even if you delete it later.

If you participate in social media activities as part of your job role at Tricon, or an account created for us, that account may be considered Tricon property. If that account is Tricon property, you will not try to change the password or the account name or create a similar sounding account or claim any ownership of the contacts and connections you have gained through the account, upon leaving the company.

However, if you do not follow the standards laid out above while engaging in social media channels, you could face serious consequences in agreement with the laws of the country where you are employed.
